It's automatic when you turn 64 1/2. That's when you'll start receiving all kinds of mail and insurance-company phone calls pushing you toward Medicare enrollment.

Don't let it overwhelm you. But don't ignore the issue either. Just know this: If you are still working you do not have to enroll in Medicare. In fact if you are contributing to a Health Savings Account you must stop contributions once you have Part A. However, you do not have to take Part A unless you are taking a social security check.

There are two penalties that can occur under Medicare. When you get ready to retire it is important to understand your enrollment window to avoid these. You also don't want to miss out on guaranteed coverage into a plan of your choice. These points are just the beginning when it comes to Medicare. If you want to know more feel free to join me for one of my free 2024 educational seminars, or set up a free consultation.
